Senate Kills General Dispensary Measure.

HOUSE HAS LONG SESSION

Bill Offered to Lay Additional Strictures Upon Liquor Distillers-Move to Have Congress Advertise the Jamestown Exposition.

The Senate yesterday had the longest sitting of the session, continuing from consumed in the discussion of the genera dispensary bill, offered by Mr. Claytor, of Bedford, and which came up on its third The Senate first amended the bill so as to give the State one-fourth instead of one eighth of the profits of dispensaries in the event the bill should pass, that amendment being proposed by Mr. Wickham, of Hanover. The amended bill was then exhaustively discussed, and the pending question, the engrossment of the bill, or-dered. The Senate refused by a vote of 15 to 6 to engross the bill, and Mr. Wickham's motion to reconsider was rejected. thus killing the measure for the session This action does not, however, interfere with the operation of the existing lotal dispensaries.

with the operation of the existing local dispensaries.

There were twenty-six or more members present when the session of the Sonate began, but this number had dwindled to 21 when the measure came to a vote. During the debate the cloak-room was a popular place, many of the Senators retiring to it to enjoy the luxury of a puff at a pipe or cigar.

GENERAL GAME LAW.

There was little preliminary business. The Senate and House could not agree on the amendments to the general game law, and a conference was ordered on the disagreeing vote. Messrs. Keezell, Haldisagreeing vote. Messrs. Keezell, Hal-sey and McIlwaine were named as con-ferees on the part of the Senate. Several bills mentioned in The Times-

Dispatch of yesterday were reported from committees. Several local road measures were of-

Several local road measures were of-fered, one relating to Fairfax, and an-pther by Mr. Lyle. They were referred. The Senate deferred the first special order, the general bill as to cities and towns, reported from the Committee on Counties, Cities and Towns. It was post-poned owing to the absence of some sen-ators who desired to discuss it. THE DISPENSARY BILL.

The second special order, the general dispensary bill, of which Mr. Claytor is the parton, was then taken up and consider it nofit consumed the remaining time of the sesofficonsumed the remaining time of the season. Mr. Claytor opened the debate in an exmest appeal for the bill, which, he claimed, would largely increase the revenue from the liquor traffic; would secure regulation and control of it; unadulterated liquors would decrease the evils of social drinking, and in every way result satisfactorily to the communities adopting the plan. He charged that the evils of the liquor traffic were due mainly to social drinking, which would be practically broken up by the dispensary plan.

BOTTLE-DRINKING HABIT.

Mr. Opte was unqualifiedly opposed to the plan. He declared that it begot the bottle-drinking habit, which he regarded as the very worst and most demoralizing form of indulgence, creating drunkards.
He was opposed to the State engaging in the liquor business on any terms.

Mr. Wickham was opposed to the dispensary plan, but especially to the dispensary plan, but especially to the dispensary plan between the various towns and countles where it was in vogue as developed by the debate. He proposed to smend by making the State's share of the profits one-fourth instead of oneeighth. This amendment was later adopted.

Mr. Shands, in whose county there is a

Mr. Shands, in whose county there is a Mr. Shands, in whose coulty there is a local dispensary, advocated the dispensary plan, but opposed the bill for the reason that if passed it would repeal the special law in his county, and operate to the disadvantage of the dispensary there, fecreasing the local revenue derived from it. He voted against the amended bill. A SOCIAL HABIT.

Mr. Watkins, of Prince Edward, joined hands with the patron of the bill and advocated it in a speech of some length. He charged that drinking was a social liabit, which would be practically done away with under the dispensary plan. Mr. Watkins also described his experience in local option towns and counties where the law was evaded through the bogus club plan. He detailed his experience in one of these so-called local option town one of these so-called local option town clubs, where, by the payment of a dime and the entry of his name on a book, he became a member of the club and got his frink. His memberahlp ceased as soon as he had gotten the drink, which he axialned was for his stomach's sake.

JUDGE MANN'S PROTEST. Judge Mann, author of the Mann liquo bill regulating and controlling the trat-ite, made an earnest protest against the plan, and his attitude in the matter of the lie, made an earnest protest against the plan, and his attitude in the matter of the liquor traffic. He was opposed to it, and had sought successfully to have his views embodied in the bill bearing his name, but with such concessions to the opponents of his views as would secure the enactment of the bill. He stated that he was nominated for Congress on one occasion, but learning that the liquor interests were opposed to his candidacy, and being unwilling to yield anything of his conscientious convictions for the sake of office or anything else, he had declined the nomination. Judge Mann sharply criticised the dispensary plan, which he op ased on the principle that it put the State in the liquor traffic. Furthermore, Judge Mann took up the laim of the advocates of the dispensary that the people of dispensary towns were plessed with the operation of the law, and pointed out that the counties and towns surrounding or contiguous to dispensaries pere bitterly opposed to the pla, suffe ing ill the evils and sharing none of the profits of the enterprise. It operated to annul no license laws in the counties and towns surrounding it.

Mr. Clay or closed the dispensary plan from the criticisms leveled at it.

ts reports, on the first clause of the Shackelford resolution, referring the Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. It can be already stated with positiveness that there will be two reports from that committee-a minority and a majority reportor two reports signed by six members each One of these reports will declare that in the opinion of the signers the action of the House of Delegates on the resolution to remove Judge C. J. Campbell, of Amherst, has not been in ac cordance with the Constitution and the cordance with the Constitution and the law, and that the detects in the record of the House to procedure and in the resolution transmitted to the Senate must be cured before the Senate may properly and legally consider the resolution. The other view is that there has been no defect, either technical or material, in the action of the House, and that its procedure has been regular and that it is legal for the Senate to act upon the resolution as transmitted.

Stood Five to Four.

Stood Five to Four.

Of the nine members of the committee present on record yesterday afternoon live favor one report and four the other. Three others were absent and their positions with regard to the two resolutions have not been made known. Upon the position of these three members hangs the question as to which view shall become the majority report of the committee on this clause of the resolution of reference, and which the minority report, or, in the event that six sign each report, who will be the signers in each case.

report, who will be the signers in each case.

There were present at the meeting of the committee Mr. Mcliwaine, chairman; Messrs. Byars, Watkins. Bruce. Cogbili, Walker, Haivey, and Messrs. Ople and Eryant were present a portion of the time the committee sat and recorded their attitudes on the conflicting views of the questions at issue. Five, or certainly four, of those recorded subscribe to one view, and four or five to the other, Messrs. Whitehead, Harman and Sears were not present.

Messrs. Whitehead, Harman and Sears were not present.

Four of the nine members recorded yesterday are believed to take the view already stated on the floor of the Senate by the chalrman, that the procedure has not been according to the law and the Constitution in its application to this case, involving the removal of a judge and the proper procedure thereto necessary. Four others are generally understood to take, the other view; viz.: that the procedure of the House is without flaw, and that the Senate may legally act on the joint resolution as soon as the committee shall have formulated and reported its conclusions upon the evidence in the case.

One Clause at a Time.

One Clause at a Time.

One Clause at a Time.

The inference is plain that the committee will report upon one of the two clauses of the resolution of reference, and thereafter take up the latter one as to the conclusions on the evidence in the case. The committee, in the language of the Shackelford resolution, are required to report "their conclusions upon the evidence taken and printed in the cause." A difference of view is likely as to whether this requires the committee to report their conclusions upon the legality of the printed testimony, or upon the sufficiency of the evidence to justify the adoption of the resolution of removal. The first construction is one more generally held. But in either event it is believed that the committee will require considerable time to formulate a report upon this clause of the resolution. Even if it be determined that the committee are expected to report their conclusions upon the legality of the evidence as a whole, it will probably not broaden the scope of the committee's work as much as if they were expected to dissect the record in its consideration of the matter. If, on the other hand, the committee be expected to report the matter. If, on the other hand, the committee be expected to report the matter. If, on the other hand, the committee be expected to report the matter. If, on the

FLASH OF LIGHT.

The Coffee Facts Came to Her

The Coffee Facts Came to Her.

Coffee is so often unsuspected in the work it does in the human body that illustrations of this kind are interesting.

A lady in West Townsend, Mass, says:

"I did not begin drinking coffee until I was an adult. Not very long after I commenced I began to have headaches and a dull, heavy, stupid feeling. These symptoms grew worse until I was ill, but I had no suspicion that coffee was the cause of the trouble.

"I could not get up any strength, and after dragging around half sick for some time, I was sent off on a visit to see if the change would do me good. I soon began to feel better, and at the end of three weeks felt perfectly well again.

"Before leaving I had a long talk with my friend as to the cause of my getting better, I had taken no medicine of any kind, and the food was about the same as at home; the coffee was particularly rich, strong and palatable. I complimented her on the coffee and asked what kind she used. She told me 'Postum,' which I absolutely could not believe. I had enjoyed it so much and it agreed with me so perfectly, but I had always had en idea that Postum Food Coffee was a flat-tasting insipid drink, and was only used by people who could not drink the old-fashioned coffee.

"My friend said she had been using it for two years, because when she drans the old-fashioned coffee it kept her sick half the time. Then it dawned on me like a flash of light that the old-fashioned coffee was the cause of my trouble and sickness, and that leawing it off and using Postum for three weeks had made mt well.

"When I went home I told mother of the change. She saw how round and fat "When I went home I told mother of the change. She saw how round and fat the change.

"When I went home I told mother of mt well.

"When I went home I told mother of the change. She saw how round and fat I had grown, and said: 'You can have Postum at home; we have a package in the house that I tried once, but it tasted so flat that I went back to the ordinary coffee. So I said: Let me make it; Mrs.— said it must be made according to directions, and must boil at least 15 or 2 minutes after the boiling begins, and if we can make it as good as she does you will be astonished at it."

"Well she was astonished, and from that time to this we have left the old-fashioned coffee off the table and used Postum altogether. Mother is better, my headaches and sick feelings have never returned. There is no doubt but that coffee is a poison to us, and Postum is the cause of our comfort and health." Same

Through the efforts of District Passenger Agent C. W. Westbury, Lee Camp, and the Veterans' Associations, of this city and Suffolk, have elected the Southern as the route to the reunion at New Orleans next month.

Captain Westbury was yesterday in conference with Messrs. J. B. Heyward, of the West Point route, and J. G. Hollenbeck, of the Louisville and Nashville, both of Atlanta, at which time many of the minor details of the journey were perfected. The West Point route will handle the local delegations from Atlanta to Montgomery, and from this point the Louisville and Nashville will move the party into New Orleans via Mobile.

The Southern Railway has also been selected as the official route to the convention of American physicians, which will be held in New Orleans from May 5th to 8th, and Capitain Westbury expects to move at least one cur of medical men from Richmond to the scene.

Beginning next Monday the York River Line will begin the operation of a daily boat service up and down Chesareak Bay between West Point and Baltimore. This will open up a new avenue of travel to Richmond and vicinity, as the Southern will operate a train between this city and the Virginia port to connect with the vessels, going and coming.

The Norfolk and Western announces that beginning Sunday week. May 3d, the regular "Trillby" excursion between Richmond and Norfolk will be inaugurated for the summer. Until later therips will not include Virginia Beach and Ocean View.
